London Mayor To Address Ontario Economic Summit

As part of a two-day gathering of diverse leaders and partners of Ontario's economy, London Mayor Anne Marie DeCicco-Best will address the Ontario Economic Summit in Niagara-on-the-Lake Wednesday morning, November 14.

Advancing Ontario's prosperity through leadership, collaboration and innovation is the goal of the Ontario Economic Summit (OES), a strategic initiative of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce. Since its successful launch in October 2004, the OES has annually brought together leaders of business, labour, academia and government in this common goal, by staging a dynamic program of speakers and panelists to evoke new ideas on best practices.

This year's keynote speaker to open the Summit is the Honorable Bill Clinton, 42nd President of the United States. This event will be followed by a jam-packed series of presentations, including an Address by Premier Dalton McGuinty and a Competitive Communities Round Table.

As the only municipal politician invited by the Ontario Chamber of Commerce to present as part of the Summit program, Mayor DeCicco-Best will join two corporate business leaders in a panel discussion exploring the issue of enhancing local and regional competitiveness. This Round Table is anticipated to be a lively and interactive session.

Through the Ontario Economic Summit, participants create and take ownership of their ideas and then work with the OES Secretariat to implement key priorities throughout the year.
